Program Description
The Aya Center is an academic and therapeutic community organization developed by professional educators and therapists who were deeply concerned with the need for substantive after-school student services. Out of that dedication to youth, The Aya Center was established, in 2004, to serve students within the District of Columbia and North Carolina. Since then, the work of The Aya Center has become widely recognized as a highly effective academic and social development model. The Aya Center's academic and social approach to learning provides a nurturing environment for students to concentrate and feel comfortable while learning. A guiding principle of The Aya Center is, "...Our tutors and mentors go where the students are..." The Aya Center's reading and math programs provide customized instruction to students with special needs as well as general education students. Sessions take place 4 days a week and last for approximately 90 minutes each session. The program provides individual attention by qualified teachers to help students improve their reading and/or math skills within a small, interactive and fun setting.
